+ Sanctuary Moves to Sunday Mornings

Beginning on the last Sunday in June, our Sanctuary Community will move from worship at 5 pm to worship at 11:30 am. We've come full circle, folks!

Many years ago, our congregation experimented with English-language worship on Sunday evenings—German was the language of our community until well into the 20th Century!— and eventually the English-language came to Sunday mornings. Seems that history is repeating itself!

The June 27 gathering will include a pot-luck to welcome new friends and families at c. 12:30 noon.

+ Pastor André ~ Christianity Lite

Grace to you and peace.

At Christmas, the family gave me a beer-making kit to which I shall soon turn my hand. Over Christmas, Ruth offered samples of her own hand-crafted brew, wonderfully dark and rich. I don't much care for light beer—devoid as it often is of character and spirit—or worse, "Lite Beer"—devoid, as well, of proper spelling.

In recent days, National Bishop Susan Johnson has been on the road attending the first of five spring & summer synod conventions. At each convention, she gives a sort of state of the union address conveying the many realities which characterize the ELCIC in our day.

One of the pieces she has touched on she expresses as follows: "Our church, along with all mainline denominations in North America and Europe has done a very slow drift over many years to what I have been calling 'Christianity Lite'. Over time, we have slowly given in to the demands of our consumer culture and have either been unable or unwilling to challenge ourselves and each other to a full commitment in living out our lives as disciples of Jesus. I know this is both a simplification and a generalization and it doesn't apply everywhere.

"Regardless, it is becoming clear to me that we are in need of a spiritual renewal in the life of our church and in the lives of our members. I feel very strongly that God is calling us to a deeper and more spirited discipleship and to a closer daily walk with our Lord. What might this deeper discipleship look like? I think it would include regular attendance at worship; daily prayer and scripture reading; yearly involvement in a program of study; regular service in the community (not just the congregation); regular and proportional giving similar to the understanding of the Tithes found in scripture; and a commitment to sharing the good news with those around us, beginning with our family and friends."

Bishop Susan goes on to give an example of how she is living out a commitment to deeper discipleship in her own family and circumstance. In any event, while Bishop Susan will likely offer a similar witness at our Eastern Synod convention in June, we can begin to think about what she has to say now. "Christianity Lite" nicely captures the idea of our slide into a Christianity devoid of character and spirit.

Recently, our Sanctuary Community has begun to envision its future within the Trinity family. I think some of their initiatives precisely address a concern for "Christianity Lite".

What do you think? Is Bishop Susan onto something? How might we address her plea for spiritual renewal in our own lives, families and congregation? Hmm. Something to ponder as I turn my hand to a dark ale.

Blessings.

+ Jennifer Famme

As mentioned, page 5, Jennifer Famme has been placed at Trinity as a intern. We've asked her for a brief bio.

Dear Friends in Christ,

I am happy to have this opportunity to introduce myself as your new intern. My name is Jennifer Famme, and a few weeks ago I completed my second year of study in the Master of Divinity program at Waterloo Lutheran Seminary.

I live down the road in Stratford with my three fantastic children. Andrew is 9, Megan is 7, and Kaitie is 4. When I am not studying theology or doctrine, they keep me busy with school activities, dance lessons, and road hockey!

In my previous career, I served as Minister of Music at Zion Lutheran Church in Stratford and as a freelance musician. I accompanied the Schneider Male Chorus for 10 years and worked with the St. Marys Children's Choir as vocal coach, conductor of the training choir, and as accompanist.

In my spare time I enjoy reading anything that's not school-related! I just finished reading Wally Lamb's The Hour I First Believed and am now working away at The Omnivore's Dilemma by Michael Pollan.

I also enjoy travelling. My most recent adventure took me on a solidarity pilgrimage to Israel and Palestine last spring where I learned so much about the frustrations and the suffering of our brothers and sisters in this incredible land. When I meet you in the fall, I will have just returned from Latvia. I will be travelling there in August to help celebrate the marriage of a good friend and classmate and to learn more about his work with Latvian orphans.

While I am a city dweller these days, I grew up on a dairy farm in Elma Township, and I love dirt! I have a special interest in organic gardening—mostly vegetables and flowers—but last year I decided to try my hand at fruit trees. I planted several varieties of apple and pear trees.

They survived the winter, and I am happy to report that one of the apple trees is full of blossoms this spring! My interest in gardening has led me to explore and research food justice issues and the spirituality of eating.

So that's a little about me! I look forward to meeting all of you in September. I am excited to have the opportunity to learn and grow with you in faith. May you enjoy a restful summer!

✝ Edgewood Partnership

Work Weekend Retreat

Come break bread and join in community with other Edgewood supporters, Friday-Sunday, May 28-30. There are plenty of projects for this men's retreat, including roofing, framing, landscaping and clean-up. All talents welcome. Meals and stay included for a small fee of $40. Cost a burden? Speak to a pastor in confidence. The goal is to register 65 men for Edgewood's 65 years. Let's be part of the celebration! Info? Visit www.edgewood-camp.ca or speak to Pastor Anne.

Adopt-a-Cabin Program

Edgewood is opening its doors —literally— to our congregations and inviting us to join in an updating and refurbishing program. They are interested in having congregations adopt a cabin or space at the camp to maintain or spiff up. That might mean some paint, a new cabin roof or tables for the dining hall. Can Trinity put its mark on our church camp? Do you have skills, time or resources to donate to the cause? If you are interested in finding out more, please speak to Pastor Anne, Ken Seltzer or Doug Miller.

+ Sabbath Blessings

We are grateful to Molly Wolff for her kindness in making the voice of Sabbath Blessings available to us. The following essay was created in connection with the Royal Ontario Museum's recent Dead Sea Scrolls display.

Four Things

The younger kid and I went down to Toronto for a tourist-y weekend, taken in conjunction with the older kid and his partner, my other-daughter. We spent much of our time in two prime exhibition spots: the Ontario Science Centre and the Royal Ontario Museum, invariably known as the ROM.

I also went to church this Sunday morning at my other-daughter's nosebleed-high Anglican parish, St. Mary Magdalen's (aka St. Mary Mag's), Healey Willan's long-time church, possessing the best church choir in Canada. Not my judgment: the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's verdict. Okay. That was the informational set-up. Out of this visit, four things emerged:

(One) The ROM is putting on the first Canadian exhibition of the Dead Sea Scrolls. I have now leaned elbows over a display case showing the exquisitely scribed fragments, put together like a jigsaw puzzle with missing pieces, of a psalm dating back maybe two millennia, to the dry lands whereupon our Lord walked with his calloused humble human feet.

The delicacy and beauty of the script clobbered me far more than any historical or theological element. I assorted this with the equally exquisite scribing of a Qu'ran, an early medieval New Testament, and an ancient Egyptian text (the ROM is nothing if not eclectic).

I associated it with all the human beauty of extraordinary craft, stuff we in the early 21st century simply don't get — how intelligent, patient, perfectionist, devoted, passionate, our ancestors were about stuff we take contemptuously for granted, like the brocading of a length of 18th-century silk, the turning of Venetian glass, the precise strokes of a brush or pen. How beauty is rooted in the human soul. How the scribe, the weaver, the embroiderer, the maker, spends time, takes time, tunes experience and craft, to something extraordinarily important. We have forgotten this.

(Two) That beauty, that perfectionism, that care and passion, were in the music I heard at St. Mary Mag's this morning — music and liturgy dedicated to excellence and solemnity and beauty of a high order. The church itself is quite plain — nothing fancy in the way of decoration or glass. No; it's sunk all its emotional and spiritual energy into liturgy and music, which it does supremely well and in complete devotion. And that too was deeply admirable.

But the Science Centre and the ROM also gave me two wild, unmediated, not-human gifts, the other two of the four.

(Three) The Science Centre had a series of photos from the Hubble space telescope: five images in colour of galaxies and nebulae, of swirling masses of billions and billions of stars, from infant to dying, clouds of interstellar gas — amazing images, wild and free. And there was a tidy diagram showing how it all starts from the point of the Big Bang.

I know that an in-depth awareness of the vastness of the universe is supposed to make us feel insignificant and unimportant. The blessedness of faith is to be able to say "Woohoo! God made all these stars in their vastness and glory, and God also made the ants' nest in the rain forest exhibit of the Science Centre, not far from the Burmese python, and I stand between the two, wholly known and wholly loved, as are the ants and the galaxies and the python, because God is very, very, unimaginably large Love."

(Four) The ROM, meanwhile, had an astonishing exhibition of minerals: a gazillion (it felt like) cut, uncut, lumpish, polished, honest and dressed-up variations on primal elements and what nature had done to them: in vivid colour. The beauty was extraordinary, far more searching and intense than the human-made jewelry in a nearby gallery. It was also playful.

I thought of the line from Psalm 104 about Leviathan, whom God made "for the sport of it". Yes, I understand the science — how amethyst geodes come to be, how colouring elements create blues and greens, sharp yellow, rich reds. I do get it. But it still feels as though these things come into being "for the sport of it."

Which convinces me more, the human-mediated spirituality of the scrolls and the solemn eucharist, or the wilder, wider creativity of the nebulae and the geodes? I have to vote for the latter, for myself — not for anyone else. This is a personal thing. I have been deceived too often and too deeply by piety; I prefer to range free, trailing my fingers through Creation in search of the Creator, because to me, the ultimate theological question is the Problem of Creation.

What stands before that point on the tidy diagram, that instant before the Big Bang? What causes minerals to crystalize in what we see as extraordinary beauty — beauty we can strain at but not ultimately own? (Although the straining-at, as in the Scrolls and the liturgy, is where we grow our souls.)

But our mileage will vary. That's a given.

✦ April Council News

- Every month, Council sends a number of thank-you notes. This month, we thanked Maggie Racho (Easter breakfast), Chris Normandeau (TYGers' quilt fund-raiser), Dave Merner & Gascons (TYGers' Men of Trinity calendar) & Myrta Biesel (Interesting Lives and prayer shawl ministry).
- Pastor Lavergne offered the second of several in-service learning sessions on Lutheran worship: Last month, we talked about the transition from German to English-language worship as a form of welcome and hospitality. This month we talked about Trinity's growth over 175 years and such major contributing factors as boats (from Europe), bonds (to home and culture), brides (choosing church) and babies (begotten). We also explored boom or bust (the way ahead) and the brunch & bling (realities of the Boomer and following generations).
- Council received word of Synod's confirmation of a part-time Waterloo Lutheran Seminary intern for Trinity. Her name is Jennifer Famme. See page 2.
- Council was updated on our Sanctuary Community's visioning process and desire to move their Sunday service from 5 pm to 11:30 am. See cover & column opposite.)
- Council moved its June meeting from the 16th to the 23rd to support the Gerber benefit concert. See opposite.)

✦ Sanctuary Visioning

On April 18, following worship, many of our regular Sanctuary community gathered around food to talk about the shape of Sanctuary's future and the hopes for our community. There were many great ideas including having book studies, field trips to local service organizations, outdoor services in the summer and visits to local churches to see how they worship. We also hope to develop a band to lead worship. There were aspects of our worship which were affirmed such as using video clips and discussion during service and involving all ages in worship leadership.

The most interesting change that was unanimously requested was a service time change from 5 pm to 11:30 am. The change was suggested for many reasons including connection to the Anchor Community through sharing coffee time between our services; better connection for the Faith Adventures families following class; allowing for more family and homework time on Sunday evening; improved travel time for students getting back to college and university on Sunday evening.

It looks like this will be a positive change and we look forward to moving in this direction on the last Sunday in June — June 27. We'll gather at 11:30 am. Everyone is welcome. Please help us to spread the word. Invite a friend or neighbour and try out our new Sanctuary Community time!

✦ Gerber Benefit

On Wednesday, June 16, a benefit concert will be held at Tavistock Mennonite Church in support of Richard & Val Gerber and their family.

We have moved our June Council meeting from the 16th to the 23rd so that we can participate. An offering will be taken at the church. Alternatively, people may make a contribution via a bank account set up at the Tavistock branch of Scotiabank.

The evening promises some terrific Gospel music and a surprise or two. Look for posters at the church. Join us for this good thing!

+ Seminary Women's Auxiliary

Our annual fund-raising campaign for the Women's Auxiliary of Waterloo Lutheran Seminary will take place during the months of May and June. The Women's Auxiliary uses these funds to help sponsor seminary students for their Supervised Pastoral Education program. This sponsorship helps to cover student expenses as they work in a clinical setting such as a hospital, learning pastoral care. In addition, the auxiliary plants and tends flower beds in the seminary courtyard, decorates a tree in the student lounge at Christmas, and undertakes various projects to create a better environment for the students.

Please consider making a donation to help support the Women's Auxiliary. These donations assist the men and women at the Seminary who will become our pastors and social workers.
